Payment of Accounts

In order to help students and their families make convenient arrangements for payment of their educational expenses, University of Northwestern offers flexible payment plans. While payment is due in full the first week of classes each semester, the university makes available two other options:

1. Information about monthly payment plans may be obtained from Student Accounts at 651-631-5352 or studentaccounts@unwsp.edu.
2. University of Northwestern's second option requires full payment for Fall Semester by September 30, 2013, and full payment for Spring Semester by January 31, 2014. With this payment option, a monthly 1% late charge (12.7% per annum) will be assessed on any unpaid balance as of the last day of each month.

Historically, University of Northwestern has had minimal difficulty receiving total payment on an account as the university makes every effort to work with students to resolve any difficulties they may have in paying their account in full. It is University of Northwestern's policy to pursue the collection of all funds due. In the event a student account is past due, the university will send the account to a collection agency. If the collection of the past due account is unsuccessful, the university will pursue legal action. While these actions are not taken lightly, it is University of Northwestern's obligation to its other students and supporters, as a good financial steward, to pursue the collection of all student accounts.

Enrollment Deposit

In order to secure a place in the University of Northwestern student body, a $200 enrollment deposit is required by May 1 for new students entering fall semester and prior to initial registration for new students entering spring semester. For former students returning to Northwestern, the $200 enrollment deposit is required prior to re-enrollment. This deposit will be applied to the first semester's tuition following the first day of the semester.

Refund of Deposit

New students who cancel their admission receive full refund of the enrollment deposit if the written notice of cancellation is postmarked to the Office of Admissions no later than May 1 for fall semester or prior to registration for spring semester.

Continuing or re-enrolling students receive full refund of the enrollment deposit (except as noted above) when they cancel their registration through the Student Development Office no later than July 1 for fall semester or December 1 for spring semester.

Refund of Tuition and Fees

If a student withdraws from a course after classes begin, a refund of the tuition is determined as of the withdrawal date.

If a student withdraws from the university, the amount of the refund is determined as of the date a completed student termination notice is filed in the Student Development Office. Board and room payments are refunded in proportion to the time the student has been in residence.

Within a month after termination, the student will receive either a bill or refund check. An account balance that is not paid in full within sixty days is transferred to University Accounting Service (UAS) for future monthly billing. The student account must be paid in full before transcripts or a diploma can be released. Questions may be directed to Student Accounts at 651-631-5352 or StudentAccounts@unwsp.edu.

There is no charge for a second half-semester course cancelled during the first half of the semester.

Refund Policy

In the event that a student withdraws from the university, there is a calculation to determine what portion(s) of financial aid will be returned to the respective aid programs. The Financial Aid Office will determine this.

Financing the Cost of Education

A student needing financial aid should begin the process of seeking assistance from all possible sources as early as possible. Financial aid comes in a variety of forms—scholarships, grants, loans, and work-study programs. Recipients of such assistance are selected on the basis of need, academic performance, or special qualifications. Since funds are limited, students should submit their financial aid applications within the first three months of the calendar year. This is also the best time to apply for outside scholarships. Students receiving financial aid must maintain satisfactory progress toward degree completion as defined in the Student Handbook. 100% of the students at Northwestern receive some form of scholarship, grant, work or loan to help with their university costs.

Government Financial Aid

University of Northwestern students are eligible for student aid programs financed through federal and state governments. The Free Application for Federal Student Aid may be filed online at www.fafsa.ed.gov or on paper. Call the Federal Student Aid Information Center at 1-800-433-3243 to obtain a paper copy.

Early completion of all application forms is encouraged in order to expedite notification of acceptance and processing of financial aid. Financial aid cannot be awarded until a student has been accepted for admission. Application for financial aid can be made after January 1 for the following fall semester. Financial aid packages are awarded beginning in March.

(NOTE: THE AID PROGRAMS LISTED ARE EFFECTIVE FOR THE 2013–2014 ACADEMIC YEAR. THE PROGRAMS ARE SUBJECT TO CHANGE.)

The university is responsible to administer aid under federal and state regulations. Legislation may change provisions of financial aid programs from time to time, which can result in changes to student awards that are beyond the control of the university or the Financial Aid Office. The following aid programs are available:

The Federal Pell Grant program provides grants (gifts) to eligible students.

The Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant program provides grants (gifts) for students with exceptional financial need.

The Federal and State College Work Study program provides on-campus jobs for students who demonstrate the need to earn part of their college expenses.

The Federal Perkins Loan program provides low-cost loans combined with extended repayment periods to eligible students.

Direct Lending (DL)

The Federal Stafford Loan (DL) program provides college loans through the U.S. Department of Education.

The Parent Loan to Undergraduate Students (PLUS/DL) program enables parents to borrow funds for their students through the U.S. Department of Education.

For Minnesota Residents only:

The Minnesota State Grant program provides grants (gifts) for eligible students. This must be applied for through the university financial aid application process. To receive the maximum amount of Minnesota grant, you MUST be registered for a minimum of 15 credits each semester (this does include remedial courses [e.g., ENG0009, MAT0008, etc.]). If you take less than 15 credits in a term, you will receive a prorated award based on state guidelines, which in some cases could be a total loss of State Grant for the term.

Please refer to the University of Northwestern Financial Aid website (unwsp.edu/web/undergrad/finaid) for more specifics on Financial Aid.

Northwestern will honor scholarships for students in academic programs that extend beyond four years.

IMPROVING SCHOLARSHIP ELIGIBILITY

Students who receive the Founders Scholarship or the Challenge Award will receive the award for four years. However, if they improve their cum GPA, they may be considered for additional scholarships.

LEADERSHIP AWARDS

Approximately 40 of these competitive awards are presented each year to students who demonstrate leadership potential via the university application process. Students identified as candidates must commit to full participation in Northwestern's Leadership Development Program to receive this award. Awards are made beginning in February.

Minority Assistance Program

(for Minnesota Residents only)

Northwestern provides financial assistance of up to 75% of tuition or demonstrated need (whichever is less) to 30 academically qualified minority students as the university seeks to establish an educational community that is representative of a global and urban population and which is reflective of the Kingdom of God.

Recipients will be selected from a larger pool of applicants based on goals and standards of the Office of Admissions.

All students receiving financial assistance through the Northwestern Minority Grant program are expected to engage with the university community through involvement and become involved in university life by participating in one or more of the following:

- C-GRACE orientation and programs
- Leadership Development Program
- Co-Curricular activities
- Honors Program

Students will continue to receive financial assistance in subsequent years based on the following criteria:

- Financial Need
- Evidence of active engagement in the university community
- Academic Progress

Annual assessments are conducted collaboratively through the offices of the Registrar, Financial Aid, C-GRACE, and Student Development regarding the qualifications for financial assistance. Students must complete a FAFSA and possibly verification documents prior to May 1st – prior to Fall enrollment. Funds are limited, so early application is encouraged.

International Students

Most international students are not eligible to receive state or federal assistance; however, they may be eligible to receive various forms of University of Northwestern aid based on the results of the International Student Financial Assistance Application. International students may also qualify for up to 20 hours of work on campus per week.

Students Taking a Combination of Course Venues

University of Northwestern has four different venues of education: Center for Graduate Studies, FOCUS, Traditional Undergraduate, and Undergraduate Online Learning. In the event that a Traditional Undergraduate student takes a combination of courses from the different venues offered by University of Northwestern, their financial aid will be recalculated based on credit load from each venue. Example: If a student has been awarded Traditional Undergraduate Institutional Assistance (grants and scholarships from the university), they may experience a reduction in that funding due to the number of credits taken in Traditional Undergraduate and Undergraduate Online Learning courses. Please check with the Financial Aid Office on the eligibility of aid based on the combination of courses.

Traditional Undergraduates Taking Undergraduate Online Learning (UOL)

Students taking UOL credits only will not be eligible for institutional aid funds (University of Northwestern Grants and Scholarships), but may be eligible for Federal and/or State aid and loans.
