Business Administration

The business administration degree through Northwestern's adult undergraduate program includes a firm foundation of business and communication principles. You will also develop competency through accounting and finance courses to provide financial and administrative leadership.

University of Northwestern – St. Paul Since 1902, Northwestern has been equipping Christ-centered learners and leaders to invest in others and impact the world. Northwestern offers five graduate degrees and two graduate certificates, 70+ areas of traditional and adult undergraduate study, and online and early college programs.

Mission University of Northwestern – St. Paul exists to provide Christ-centered higher education equipping students to grow intellectually and spiritually, to serve effectively in their professions, and to give God-honoring leadership in the home, church, community, and world.

Faith and Education

As a Christ-centered university, we construct our curriculum with a biblical worldview and choose our faculty and admit students because of their devotion to Christ. The reason we strive for excellence is to bring glory to God. Faith impacts everything we do.

Adult students experience academic success that often eluded them in earlier years. By focusing on your goals, you will gain knowledge to move ahead and find practical applications for what you're learning.

Is a Business Administration Degree for You?

If you are considering a career path that includes leadership and decision-making in the business world, the business administration degree will help you develop the skills you need. Built upon a Christ-centered and ethical framework, a business administration degree provides an effective path for career growth in businesses or nonprofit organizations.

Committed to Your Success

In addition to your family, your classmates and professors will become your biggest supporters. Brandon, a military student in the adult undergraduate program, is impressed with the support he's received. "You always hear people in different schools saying that the teachers want you to succeed," Brandon said, "but here they give you every single opportunity to do so. Every teacher takes a genuine interest in every person in the class. I've never gotten that anywhere else."
